

Indigenous Studies

Programs for Indigenous students that center Indigenous voices

Discover a transformative educational journey with programs thoughtfully designed for Indigenous students, placing their voices at the center. Immerse yourself in a supportive learning environment that honours and amplifies Indigenous perspectives.

Programs open for all students

Stó:lō Certificate

Indigenous Studies Certificate

Bachelor of Arts, Indigenous Studies Major and Minor

Halq'eméylem Proficiency Certificates

Halq'eméylem Graduate Certificate and Diploma

Power and Place

Programs open only for Indigenous students

Indigenous Academic Success Cohort (IASC)

Indigenous Arts Certificate

Fostering Inclusivity and Indigenous Leadership

Remove barrier to access

No tuition or fees for Indigenous students.

Role models and program leadership by Indigenous faculty

Indigenous faculty coordinate the program in collaboration with local communities.

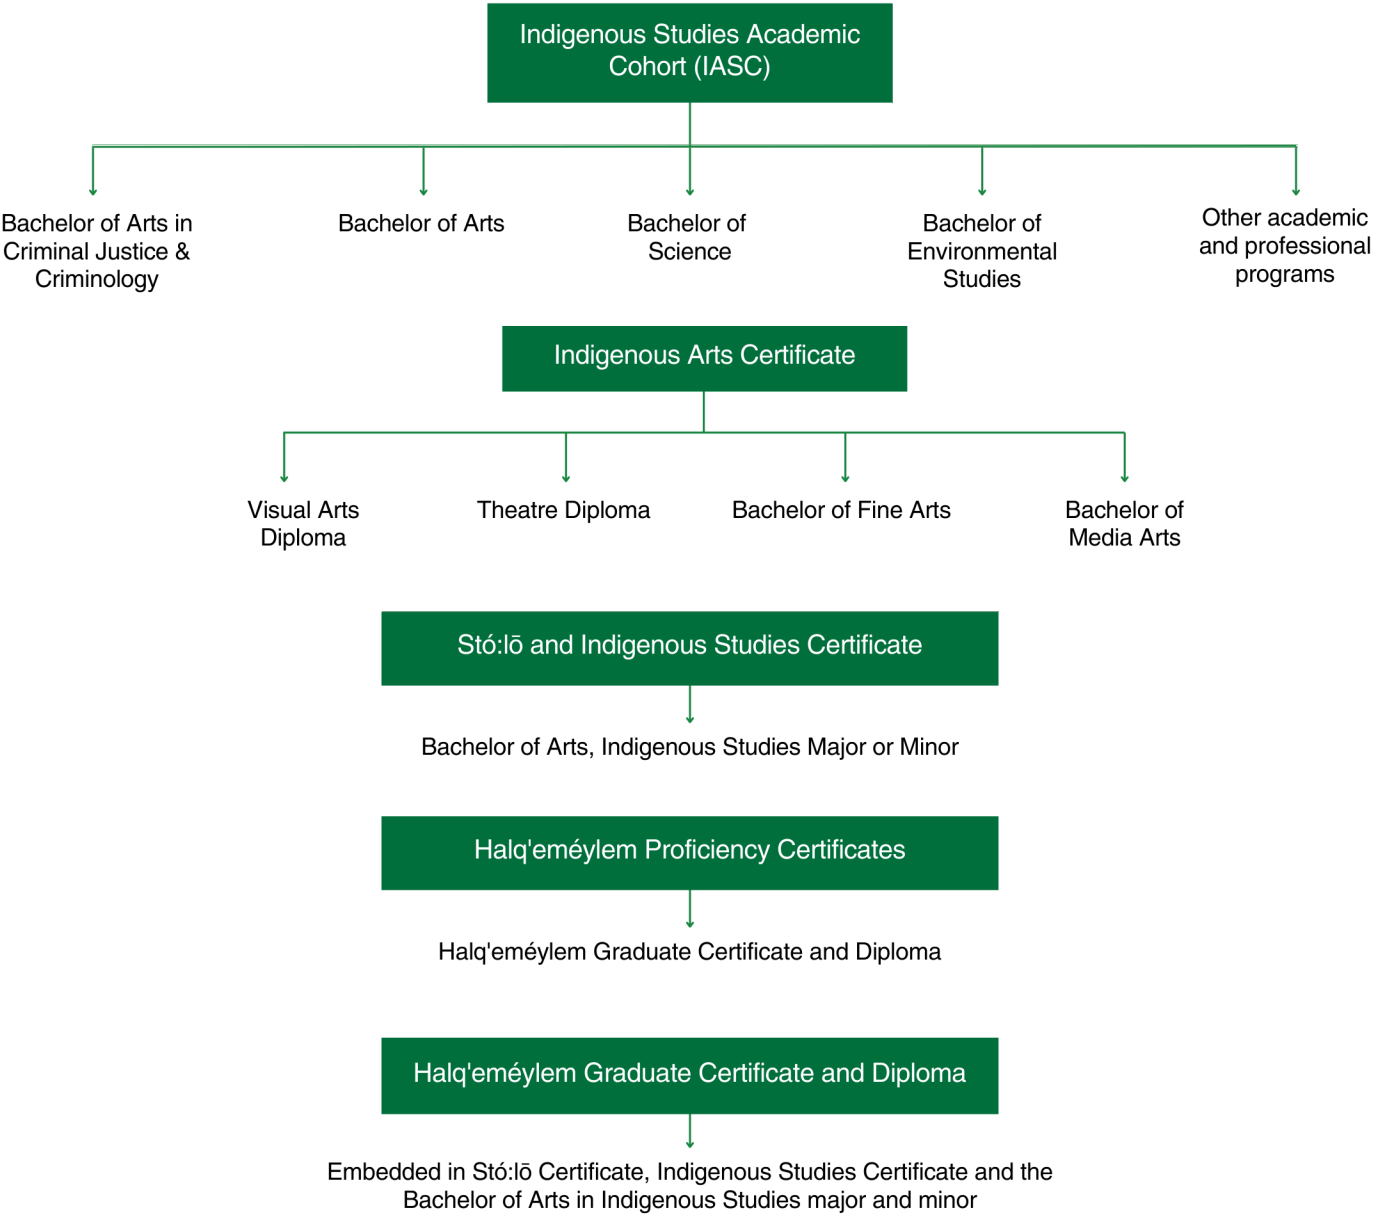

Knowledge Keepers and Senior Indigenous students mentor students

Through mentorship, we empower students to bring their culture and transform the university.

Laddering for Seamless Academic Progress

Enrolling in an Indigenous program at the College of Arts provides the opportunity to progress through various programs, achieving diverse credentials such as certificates, diplomas, and degrees.

Indigenous Voices at the Forefront

Indigenous Faculty

Stó:lō, Coast Salish and Northwest:

Dr. Lolehawk Buker (IS)
Deborah Alexander (IS)
Dr. Nicola Campbell (IS and English)
Mique'l Dangeli (IS and Creative Arts)
Mary Stewart (Halq'eméylem)
Deborah Silver (Creative Arts)
Naxaxalhts'l Albert (Sonny) McHalsie (IS, Adjunct History, Honorary Degree)
Herbert Joe (IS)
Dianna Kay (Halq'eméylem)
Kweláxtelot (Karla) Kay (Halq'eméylem)

Maui

Dr. Keziah Wallis (Anthropology)

Scan the code to learn more about the Indigenous Studies programs at UFV.

